Military

U.S. Coast Guards

The Coast Guard is unique because rather than being a part of the Department of Defense, it is a part of the Department of Homeland Security. However, the Coast Guard is considered a military service and in time of need the president can transfer any Coast Guard to the Department of the Navy. Careers in the Coast Guard are endless, from Culinary Arts to being an Electrician or in IT, and more! Check out these websites for more information:
